Fortune Shattered, Belgian Officer Comes to Phoenix

Lieutenant Van De Weide, Honorably Discharged from King Albert's Army, Comes to Phoenix, to Trade in Cotton

Lieut. Paul Van De Weide, who has just been discharged from active service in the Belgian army, arrived in Phoenix yesterday morning and, with his belongings, is registered at the Jefferson. With his former estate and his business of cotton manufacturing in Belgium entirely wiped out, both by devastation and confiscation, Lieut. Van De Weide has come to America to make his future home and has chosen the city of Phoenix as the place in which to begin rebuilding his shattered fortune.

He left Ghent, Belgium, on September 3, after having received an honorable discharge from King Albert's army, and came to San Antonio, Tex., where resided his American sweetheart, Miss Ivy Wood, whose acquaintance the lieutenant made on one of his previous trips to that southern city while on a cotton buying tour. Their marriage followed, and the young couple at once came to this city with the intention of making it their future home.

Lieut. Van De Weide is very bitter in his denunciation of the Germans for their wanton destruction of life and property in stricken Belgium, and states that in spite of all the facts which have been printed on the subject, only a small portion of the truth has actually been made public. The invading Germans are of two classes, he says, one of which is the Prussian and the other the native of the south, and it is the former class to whose door must be laid the blame for most of the atrocities which are said to be going on in Belgium. The soldier of the southern part of the German empire is fighting for the purpose of demonstrating his devotion to the emperor, and seems not to have the intense hatred for the Belgians which characterizes the Prussian soldier. The Lieutenant says that he has in his possession some documents and affidavits which he intends to make public in a short time and which will make interesting reading for the American citizen.

"To the United States of America can be given the credit for saving the small part of the kingdom of Belgium which still remains today," said Mr. Van De Weide. "At the time that the food supplies from the United States began to reach the stricken and starving country, the people had been wrought to such a pitch of frenzy through hunger that they were on the verge of making attacks on the invading German soldiers, which would have caused what few of the inhabitants who still remained to have been put to death in retaliation for having made attacks on the soldiers."

"Whenever a body of soldiers was fired upon by civilians it has been the custom of the invaders to slaughter the entire population of the town or district where the attack was made, women and children included, as an object-lesson to any civilians who might be planning to follow their example."

"So, relieved of their hunger by the timely arrival of the relief ships bearing the United States' gifts of food, the miserable inhabitants were more restored to their reason, and refrained from committing those acts which would doubtless have led to their destruction by the invaders."

Mr. Van De Weide is planning to enter into the manufacture of cotton goods in this country on about the same scale as that which he carried on in Belgium, and hopes thus to retrieve his fortune which has been swept away by the present war.

DINNER AND DANCE OF THE COUNTRY CLUB

A Pleasant Initial Event of the Season Last Night

With the delightful informality that will characterize all its events in the future the Country Club gave its initial large affair of the season last evening. The supper-dance was planned to usher in a series of social diversions that if carried out along the same lines will give Phoenix a winter of thorough enjoyment and unusual gaiety.

At charmingly appointed tables cleverly arranged about the room were gathered parties, large and small. Groups of four and six predominated although hosts entertained as many as twenty guests. The club house was decorated effectively. American Beauty roses featured the scheme and formed the centerpiece for each table. The necessary touch of green boughs, a shower of which hid the fire place from view. During the supper Mrs. John H. Page, Miss Emma Bennett and Miss Ruth Griffin in the becoming costume of old Spain danced a Spanish dance to which Mrs. Helen Burroughs sang an accompaniment. Lester Byron provided several musical numbers that added to the pleasure of the occasion. The dance music was exceptionally good and was furnished by the Feigenbaum orchestra of four pieces, saxophone, violin, piano and drum.

Among the hundred and seventeen guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Tweed who entertained seven guests, Dr. and Mrs. Roy E. Thomas at whose table covers were laid for six, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bennett had six guests, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Collier's table were gathered eight, Mr. and Mrs. Fen Hildreth's party included six, Joe Casson was host of a congenial coterie of seven, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Woolsey had four guests as had Mr. and Mrs. Julian Holmes. Among others present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldwater, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Chalmers, Judge and Mrs. C. F. Ainsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Warren McArthur, Dr. and Mrs. Anil Martin, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bonar, Innes, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Goldberg, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dorris, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Page, Mr. and Mrs. Cass Redewill, Mr. and Mrs. Homer King, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Goldman, Miss Selma Goldberg, Miss Harriet Hurley, Miss Florence Allen, Miss Ruth Griffin, Miss Emma Bennett, Miss Max Wilson, Lindsey Calhoun, Morton, Yewell Rice, Lester Byron, Harry Hurley and Sam Wilson.

MISS CAVELL MET DEATH

she said: "I thank God for this ten weeks of calm before the end. My life has always been hurried and full of difficulties. This rest has been a great mercy. They have been kind to me here. But this I say, standing in view of God and eternity, I realize patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred nor bitter animosity towards any people. We partook of Holy Communion together and she received the gospel message of consolation with all her heart. At the close of the little service I began to repeat the words of 'Abide With Me' and she joined softly in the end."

"We sat quietly talking until it was time for me to go. She gave me parting messages for relations and friends. She spoke of her soul's needs at the moment and she received assurance of God's words as only a Christian can do. "Then she said good bye and she smiled and said: 'We shall meet again.'"

"A German military chaplain was with her at the end and afterwards gave her a Christian burial. He told me: 'She was brave and bright to the last. She professed Christian faith and said she was glad to die for her country. She died like a heroine.'"

"Whitlock, in the enclosing letter he wrote to Baron von Der Lancken, the German governor, at the request of President Faidor of the court of appeals at Brussels, and the president of the Belgian school of nurses, asking that Miss Cavell's body be delivered to the school of nurses of which she was directress, says:

"I have not received a written reply to my note to Baron Lancken on the subject, but he came to see me yesterday afternoon and stated that the body had been interred near the prison of St. Gilles, where the execution took place, and that under the regulations governing such cases, it was impossible to exhumate the body without written permission from the minister of war at Berlin."

"He added he had no authority to ask for permission to exhumate the body, but that immediately upon the return of the governor general he would request him to take the matter up."

"I still hope to be able to tell you that we have at last been able to accomplish this small service."

RAIL ROAD WAR

intention to start a new water route from Wilson's Point to New York. Further evidence that the New Haven continued the party agreement, was introduced in the form of a letter written to the general freight agent of the New Haven to Mellen complaining that the New York and New England cut rate on each boiler was an direct violation of the Sound Lines agreement. Evidence was introduced to show that after the New York and New England carried out its determination to establish the Wilson's point route, J. P. Morgan and William Rockefeller bought up the securities of the Housatonic railroad by which New York and New England connected with Wilson's Point

Yaguis Leave Naco

DOUGLAS, Oct. 22.—Yaguis under General Urabele left Naco to take possession of Arancavich Pass, 12 miles west of Agua Prieta and the Carranza troops marching through the pass. It is indicated that a battle between Carranza and the Villa forces will probably occur there. General Calles, under Carranza, has ordered the Southern Pacific not to repair its bridges between Naco and Cananea, which the retreating Naco garrison burned. This means that the Cananea mines must close in a few days, making two thousand idle.

proved their ability to do so, or until the operations had reached a stage which would assure them that their countries would not be overrun with enemy forces.

The latest offensive of the Russians was assumed north of Tarnopol, where they succeeded in carrying Teuton positions that gave nearly eight thousand prisoners, two howitzers and machine guns. The Germans claim the counter attacks at Tarnopol and Baranovichi were successful and also to have taken four thousand prisoners. They admit the loss of six guns at Styr.

The German attack on Artois was repulsed, the French claim. The contemplated attack on Champagne was prevented by the French artillery.

The Italians are progressing along the Isonzo. No advance is reported at Trentino. During the week one British steamer was a victim of a German submarine. This is the lowest record for British ships sunk in months. It is reported that British submarines sunk three ships in the Baltic in twenty-four hours.
